

Keway Attends Yankee School

Four miles southwest of the lake of the Clouds in the Porcupine Mountain State Park and accessible to travelers only by a winding mountain trail is a dream spot known as Mirror Lake. Guarded by virgin white pine and hemlock, some of which are four to five feet in diameter and over 100 to 120 feet in the sky, Mirror Lake nestles in a mountain range. The sun sets early, twilight shadows on the water give rise to its name.

Phil Keway, outstanding Grayling High School athlete for the past four years and a pitching mainstay for the Grayling Independents this last season left last Thursday night for Plattsburg, New York for an intensive week long baseball school under the sharp and searching eyes of the New York Yankees coaches and scouts.

Phil was transferred from the central states school at Independence, Kansas, to the eastern state school at Plattsburg, high above the waters of Lake Champlain. In his letter telling him where to report last Saturday, he was told that following this week's session he will have definite word as to where he stands.

The altitude of Mirror Lake is three feet higher than the top-most crest of the rocky escarpments that rim the southern edge of Lake of the Clouds.

You begin to realize this height when you hike over a well-marked trail with your bedroll and two day's supply of food in a backpack strapped on your back. The trail ascends steadily after you leave the Carp River outlet of Lake of the Clouds. You are traversing the center of Michigan's new wilderness park, an untouched timberland of nearly 100,000 acres, the largest remaining hardwood stand in the Middle West.

Two-thirds up the mountain trail you reach a scenic gorge. A long creek fed by a cold mountain spring, tumbles down in a series of picturesque waterfalls. Along the banks of this miniature canyon is an ideal place to refresh one's spirits—boil a pot of coffee, eat a sandwich or a bar of candy, and admire a fairytale of giant trees and fern. The ground is a brown cushion of pine needles.

Since October, 1944, when we failed to reach Mirror Lake because we got on the wrong trail, we had been telling the missus about the fascination of the Porcupines. And so we two became, quite by accident, the first couple to pack to our bed and food to the state's first log cabin at Mirror Lake.

Earl J. Donnelly, native of Ontonagon and now assistant director of the budget bureau at Washington, D. C., had preceded us with a party of seven. But with admirable prudence he had hired a team and wagon to haul supplies from the Nonesuch mine, site of a future park dude ranch. The team had taken nine hours' time to reach the cabin, for the trail was rough and boggy.

Knox Jamison, park superintendent, told us the state is building five cabins in the park this year. Three will be at Mirror Lake, located about 500 feet apart. One will be along the south side of Lake of the Clouds, a fourth at the upper falls of the Little Carp River, and the fifth along Lake Superior at Lone Rock point. The first Mirror Lake cabin has eight bunks; all others will have four single beds and a combination heating and cooking range. You must pack your own bedding, cooking utensils and what is more important—your food. These cabins rent for $2.50 a day, summer or winter. Reservations may be made by writing to Mr. Jamison at Ontonagon.

For supper at Mirror Lake we feasted on "pigs in blankets"—hot dogs wrapped in bacon slices. Berber's baby food provided a peach dessert—a new use for this pre-moistened line. Powdered instant coffee provided our beverage. For breakfast we enjoyed our favorite delight of buttermilk pancakes, ready-mixed for baking and topped with brown syrup and bacon. Don't skimp on food. Your appetite will be immense.

After dinner we shoved off in our old wooden boat, a relic replete with mining days, for an exploratory cruise about Mirror Lake. When we take the missus in a canoe, we insist that she put on a life preserver. A land lubber from Indiana she can't swim a stroke. Here we were paddling about in a lake miles from civilization, in a craft that could qualify for Noah's ark!

Because of the rock formation, the water in Mirror Lake is brown and as coffee-brown. Trout fishing is excellent early in the spring, but poor during the hot summer weeks. Lily pond lake is better, they say.

Several weeks ago the cook for the construction crew which is building the cabins was nearly strangled when five bears came strutting into his kitchen.

The night air was crisp and cool. With pine knots we built a friendly camp fire in front of the cabin and gazed at the deepening shadows on the lake. A rabbit hopped from the underbrush by the lake shore and nibbled at tender leaves on a ground vine. He ignored nonchalantly our invitations to come and share the warmth of our camp fire. Dumb animal!

The next morning we beheld, trapped in a sink inside the cabin, a timid, trembling kangaroo mouse. He had missed the rare treat of buttermilk pancake flour, for which we were eternally grateful.

Was all this worth the effort, the toll of long hikes up the mountain trail? Yes, we think so. Life in Michigan is good, and we are at peace with the world.

This architect's sketch of the Physics and Mathematics building shows one of several buildings now under construction on the campus of Michigan State College. The last session of the state legislature appropriated sufficient funds to start construction, but funds for completion will have to be appropriated at the special session to be held next January. The building pictured will fill an important need of the School of Engineering in providing space for education of record numbers of engineering students at the college.

Pollen Count Remains Low In North Section

The pollen count taken by Michigan Department of Health workers in six northern Michigan communities during the first ten days of August shows that the air is still comparatively free of the sneeze-causing particles.

Grayling had a count of 29 pollen grains to a cubic yard of air on August 2 with Alpena and Charlevoix showing a 6 count. Gaylord, Petoskey and Rogers City were pollen free that day. Alpena still had a count of 7 on the third with the other 5 stations reporting zero. All stations reported pollen free air on the 4th and on the 5th Gaylord had a 7 count and Petoskey a 22 with the others still reporting zero. The 6th found Charlevoix with 7 and Rogers City with 15, others were pollen free.

On August 7, Grayling reported pollen free air with Charlevoix, Gaylord and Petoskey all reporting 7, Rogers City 15 and Alpena 22. All stations were again pollen free on the 8th and only Charlevoix reported pollen on the 9th. The yhad a low count of 7. Charlevoix still reported their 7 on the 10 as did Petoskey. Gaylord had a 15 count while the rest of the stations were still rated zero.

The 11th brought a zero count from Rogers City with Petoskey high with 37, Gaylord 22, Charlevoix 29, Alpena 15 and Grayling 7. The 12th found Rogers City with 29 and Charlevoix and Gaylord 22 with Grayling 7 and Alpena and Petoskey zero. The 13th brought a full count from all of the northern counting points with Petoskey high again with 37 as was Gaylord, Alpena and Rogers City had 29 and Charlevoix and Grayling 7. The 14th found Charlevoix with 29, Gaylord and Petoskey 15, Grayling and Rogers City 7 and Alpena zero.

The count is expected to begin mounting as August wanes into September. The sneezing season will begin in real earnest when counts mount to and above the 100 mark.

Coach Cornell Attends Annual Coaching School

Coach Willard Cornell left Monday to attend an all-week coaching school at Central Michigan College of Education at Mount Pleasant.

Among the "big name" instructors will be Bo McMillan, head football coach at Indiana University and legendary football hero of Central College and Bud Foster of Wisconsin University who is a feared and respected member of the Big Ten athletic fraternity.

Coach Cornell pointed out that all boys who expect to take part in any high school sport this next school year must report at the High School at 10 A. M. Thursday, August 28 for a physical examination. All football, basketball, baseball or track team members must report for this examination.

Continue Heavy Trout Planting Schedule

Quantity plantings of legal size trout will continue at full speed through August 25, the Conservation Department's fish division reports. The trout season, except for rainbow trout fishing in designated waters, ends Labor Day, September 1.

More than a quarter-million legal size brook and rainbow trout were stocked in Michigan waters in July. The bulk of this planting was done in the heavily fished waters of the northern half of the Lower Peninsula, where about 70,000 brooks, 65,000 rainbows and 60,000 brown trout were released. Upper Peninsula plantings in July totaled 45,500, and about 11,000 adult trout were put in southern Michigan's few streams that stay cold enough for trout in midsummer.

Movement of ready-to-catch trout from hatcheries to streams has been speeded by volunteer sportsmen's assistance and use of trucks supplied by local government units, but on the first of the month more than 30 per cent of the 1947 production of 1,000,000 trout still remained at hatcheries and rearing stations. Not all of this is to be planted before the regular trout season ends. Lakes and some rainbow streams usually are stocked in late fall.

Campers, Cigarettes Cause Seven Fires

Camp fires, motorists' cigarettes and matches caused a total of seven grass and forest fires in Crawford County during the past 10 days.

The first struck behind the County Farm east of Grayling on M-72 when a cigarette thrown into a sawdust pile started a grass fire. On August 10 a half acre was burned over in Section 12, Range 26, 3 west believed to have been started by a cigarette. On August 13 a camp fire started a mug fire near Deward and burned over a tenth of an acre about 2 foot deep. On the 16th, two boys, age 4 and 8 started a fire in Beaver Creek, Section 20, Range 25, 3 west consumed an acre and a half. Two fires were started on August 17, but believed as the result of sparks from trains. One was in Section 11, Range 27, 4 West, the other in Section 36, Range 27, 4 West. One burned over a tenth of an acre, the other ten acres.

On August 18, a 15 year old boy burning papers started a blaze near Lovells in Section 19, 28 North, Range 1 West, which burned over an acre.

The total destruction amounted to about 10 acres. Although no buildings were damaged it took 62 men and equipment to fight the fires. The cost to the state for battling the blazes will be very high, Conservation officers pointed out.

Race Committee To Meet Friday Afternoon At Mio

Through the co-operation of Grayling's newest industry, the Bear Archery Company, an archery show and demonstration will precede the start of the Michigan Canoe Championship marathon on September 6.

As it is less than month from the start of the race until the opening of the bow and arrow season for deer in Crawford County, it was felt by the race officials that an archery demonstration would be immensely enjoyed by the race spectators and would be an excellent plug to hunt deer in and around Grayling during the archery season.

Dr. J. F. Cook of Grayling has accepted the chairmanship of the Canoe Championship race and he and his committee are working on plans to make the Friday evening, September 5 affair an enjoyable occasion for entries, spectators and the local people.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, the marathon committee will meet at the Conservation Headquarters at Mio for a final session before the big event. Representatives of Grayling, Mio, Oscoda, Tawas City, Bay City and other communities in northeastern Michigan will be in attendance. All final changes in the procedure of the race will be ironed out at this session.

Any type of canoe is permitted in the race with two paddlers for each canoe. Entries are limited to contestants between the ages of 18 and 45. No motors will be permitted. Those wishing to enter the race may obtain application blanks by contacting Mr. John Peterson, secretary of the Grayling Chambers of Commerce or from most Hardware and Sporting Good stores.

Deadline on applications will be midnight on Wednesday, September 3.

The prize list was set at a committee meeting held in Standish last Wednesday, where it was decided that $500 would be offered as first prize, with $250 for second, $100 for third place, $75 for fourth, $50 for fifth and $25 for sixth, a total of $1,000 in cash. The Bay City area will also award the winner of the first annual Canoe Championship a huge silver trophy to be in the shape of a canoe.

MUCC Plans Bear Hunt

A bear hunt with Tennessee bear dogs as held last September is again planned by the Michigan United Conservation Club it has been announced on September 15 to 20. There will be three periods of hunting of two days each making up the entire six day hunt.

Only members of clubs affiliated with the MUCC and with 1947 dues paid will be eligible to send in applications to hunt. The application may contain two names thus allowing two men to travel and hunt together. Applications should be in letter form and sent to the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, 34 Dickinson St., S. W., Grand Rapids 7.

Headquarters for the hunt will be Lake City in Muskegon County and the hunt will start at 8 A. M. each morning at a location to be announced. The drawing of the lucky hunters will be made Tuesday evening, August 26, and 50 names will be chosen for each two day hunting period. Applications should be sent at once by anyone interested. A fee of $10 must be sent to defray hunt expenses within 48 hours after the hunter is notified of the period for which his name has been drawn.

Hack Smithfield of Tennessee and his pack of trained Plott bear hounds and ten handlers plan each day's hunt and will be assisted by Conservation officers and game men. Good meals and quarters at reasonable costs along with social evenings are promised the lucky hunters.

Roy Kannisto of Waukegan, Illinois, flew here Wednesday to spend the evening with the Wirtanen family.

Grayling Ground Loops

Frank Cassel has received his private pilot license.

The City of Grayling is now marked from the air. The marker, located on Hanson's garage roof, bears a symbol that designates hard surface runways. Roscommon also carries the same symbol pointing to the Grayling airport.

Plans for expansion at the airport are now being carried out. They will provide for a new waiting room and hangar and more office space. The new facilities are expected to be completed by September 1.

Independents Face Mio Here In Last Home Appearance

Lose To Shamrocks In 12 Inning Game

The Grayling Independents will face Mio at the City Park Field next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in their last regular home appearance this year. The schedule sends them to Atlanta the following Sunday for the final games of the year, however, on Wednesday, August 27, the Atlanta team will play here at 4 o'clock to make up a game that was rained out earlier in the season. Some of the league playoff games that will be held early in September will undoubtedly be scheduled for the local field.

Last Sunday, Grayling traveled to Roscommon where the league-leading Roscommon Shamrocks defeated Grayling in a heart-breaking 12 inning contest by a 7 to 6 score. Grayling led by a 6 to 4 score going into the last half of the ninth inning and after returning two Roscommon batters, saw the Shamrocks push over two runs on one hit and three errors. The game remained deadlocked until the 12th inning when Roscommon scored another unearned run.

Bob Gidner was on the mound for Grayling and pitched a swell ball game all of the way allowing but 9 hits. He struck out 11 and issued 3 base on balls, 2 of which were intentional. Emery, Shamrock pitcher struck out 8 and walked 4, while giving up 7 hits.

Bill Muhr rapped out a triple and Lou Smith hit a double as did Ken Ostling of Roscommon. Big Lou Smith hit 3 times in 6 appearances at the plate, while Bob Hanson got 2 in 5 trips. Muhr and Ed Carlson each connected for one safety each.

On Thursday, the Old Timers met the regular ball club and the league team won the game in a walk by a 16 to 6 count. While Babe Laurant's arm held out it was a really tight ball game. Among the Old Timers' roster were Laurant and Cariveau on the mound and Post, Crawford and Pete Johnson behind the plate. The Independents used Kellogg, Carlson and Owens as their batteries. Homer "Mud" King slapped out a home run for the Old Timers for their leading hit. Muhr, Carlson and Gidner rapped out doubles for the regulars. Bob Gidner also added a triple to the before-mentioned double.

VJ-Day Celebration Termed Successful

A baseball game between the Grayling Independents and a team composed of Old Timers in the afternoon teamed with a high school band concert, speeches and a street dance in the evening drew a big crowd in Grayling last Thursday in observance of the second anniversary of VJ-Day and the end of World War 2. The celebration was staged by a veterans committee representing the Grayling posts of the Legion, V. F. W. and D. A. V.

The ball game in the afternoon ended with the League team the victors over the Old Timers by a 16 to 6 score. A good sized crowd attended the game as Grayling's business places closed their doors from noon until 6 P. M. by a proclamation by Mayor Edwin Carlson who asked that citizens of Grayling join the veterans in observing the day.

In the evening, the Grayling High School Band presented a concert which was followed by talks by Mayor Edwin Carlson, the Rev. Fr. Francis Branigan, the Rev. Svend Holm and the Rev. R. C. Puffer. A street dance on Peninsular Avenue between Michigan and Ionia in front of the Grayling Legion Hall closed the day's activities.

Houghton Lake Girl
Scouts Present Musicales

Something of special interest to music lovers of Houghton Lake and surrounding communities, namely a musical program presenting various dance bands and orchestras appearing locally this season, is being sponsored by the Houghton Lake Girl Scout Troop Committee. This all musical program will be presented Sunday afternoon, August 24, beginning at 2 o'clock at the Pines Theater through the courtesy of the Olson Brothers, who are donating the use of their theater. Admission will be 50c per person and proceeds from the affair will be used to purchase necessary equipment for the Boy and Girl Scout Lodge, located between The Heights and Houghton Lake Village, which is nearing completion.

Included on the program will be selections by the Gotham Trio, current entertainers at the Argonaut Bar, and orchestra numbers by Dave Sloan and his orchestra, who are playing at the Limberlost Hotel. Don King, popular piano stylist, featured entertainer at the Show Bar at The Heights for the past two seasons, will present a group of choice piano selections, in his own arrangements. Lena Box of the Argonaut, popular singer, pianist and organist, will give forth with your favorite tunes. Olive McGlusky, pianist and organist, will render several selections. She is entertaining the patrons of the Family Bar this season. Amateur talent including Jane Lantz, talented young local soprano; duet by Miss Lantz and Joanne Barnes. Del Apel, restaurant operator of The Heights, a former member of the Ford's Hour choir, and others will also be featured.

It is believed that such a program will be well enjoyed by people of this community, especially by the younger element who are not permitted to enjoy the music of these orchestras due to the fact that they are not allowed to enter places where they play, and by older people who refrain from patronizing these establishments. All of those appearing on the program have offered to donate their services as a gesture of co-operation to Scout activity in this area. Other orchestras appearing locally were equally ready to co-operate but regulations pertaining to union musicians prevent the above named bands from appearing with non-union musicians on any program. It is possible, if sufficient time permits the sponsoring of a similar program before the entertainment season is over, that a second musical may be offered featuring the talents of non-union entertainers.

An unusual highlight of the Aug. 24 program will be Johnny Brannan, nationally famous pantomime who is creating so much entertainment at the Argonaut this season. Johnny's ability to co-ordinate action with sound, plus his slap-happy muscular expression of the topic used, is an assured rib splitter on any program. It is assured that Johnny will especially appeal to those who enjoy the tonic of a good laugh. If you enjoy good music and entertainment we suggest that you make plans to attend the August 24 musical.

The Curse of Socialism

It would be manifestly unjust to say that the Labor Government created England's great economic problems. Those problems were principally the result of the strains of war on British resources and capital. However, it is undoubtedly true that the Labor government's basic policy of socialization and regimentation of the country's productive machine is delaying British recovery and sapping the national energies.

Socialism is the great destroyer of initiative. It places all power in the hands of bureaucrats — and bureaucrats in England are of the same kidney as bureaucrats in the United States or the Soviet Union. Their own interests come first. All the facilities of a swollen super-government are used to keep the people in line. The individual is lost in the red tape of a government which has its fingers in every phase of human activity. There is little chance for individual progress, and the rewards for work and ambition are severely limited.

The Labor government came to power by promising that socialism would cure England's economic ills. But it has failed in every particular. Socialization of the coal mines has not increased output nor bettered the lot of the miners. Socialization of finance has not strengthened England's world credit position. The threatened socialization of all British railroads and electric utilities is expected to cause more financial troubles — and to further bureaucratize the country. And the government's projected agricultural "reform" bill has raised a storm of protest, on the grounds that it would permit expropriation of property and a policy of dictation toward farm owners and workers.

Socialism always takes the same course. It exalts the office-holder and crushes the rest of the people. Worst of all, when thoroughly entrenched, it becomes extremely sensitive to criticism and in one way or another stifles opposition. By its very principles, it is the enemy of social freedom even as it is the enemy of economic freedom. The object lesson which a socialized Europe is giving us now should make every American determined to resist its further inroads here.

Development of Proper Driver Attitude Necessary
If Annual Traffic Accident Toll Is To Be Reduced

BY OTTO F. MESSNER

President American Association
of Motor Vehicle Administrators, and Deputy Secretary of Department of Revenue, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Most safety experts will agree that the ultimate solution of the safe driver problem rests in the development of the proper driver attitude. Those of us who are charged with responsibility of keeping an official eye upon the traffic situation in our respective states know that bad driving has been at the bottom of nearly every accident we have recorded. Chance-taking speedsters, poor judgment at a curve, failure to outguess the other fellow in the desire to beat him to it, along with a hundred and one other little faults in the driver's attitude, have been piling up a national casualty record, which made that of the terrible war just ended seem almost insignificant.

All of these faults just mentioned could have been corrected by proper training when the operator first began to learn how to drive a car. However, the success of that training, like the success of all training, would depend entirely upon the attitude of the person receiving it. All the training in the world will not overcome the erratic actions of a born fool. Only by the most severe punitive measures can he be handled and restrained.

The development of proper driver attitude is divided into two separate phases. Correcting the faults of present drivers and training future drivers.

The first phase is that of endeavoring to correct the driver attitude of present-day drivers who have had little or no training and who may have had driving habits of long standing. Only by utilizing every channel and vehicle of propaganda, through the medium of the press, the radio, the motion picture, the spoken word; by organized local campaigns and intensive co-operation by all civic organizations and civic-minded individuals can the individual at the wheel of the car today be made safety conscious. The same kind of patriotic appeal must be made to them as is made in behalf of the Red Cross, Community Chest, the Salvation Army and other worthy causes. In other words, civic consciousness must be aroused before the individual driver can fully appreciate and carry out, not only his responsibility to himself and his family, but to the other fellow and the community at large.

That phase of the driver problem is by far the most difficult because it must deal with a great number of people who today are driving motor vehicles with reckless disregard for their own lives and those of their fellowmen. It will require tremendous effort and a heavy expenditure of funds if it is to be far-reaching enough to get the desired results. That results can be obtained has been definitely proved.

Where there have been intensive civic safety movements and intensive publicity, the traffic casualty list has gone down. We have had that experience in Pennsylvania since last August, when the Governor's Safety Campaign was inaugurated. There has been constant activity and organized effort in every section of our Commonwealth. Fatalities have decreased along with injuries and accidents. In Pennsylvania, we have been so encouraged by the results, that we propose to add still greater impetus to the campaign in the days ahead. We believe we are giving it the leadership that any such campaign must have.

The other phase of the driver attitude problem is safety education in the schools. There has been steadily increasing interest and considerable action in this field in recent months. Education is the real solution of the driver attitude problem.

To develop the proper driver and pedestrian attitude there must be an intensive educational program in all of the schools of the country, starting at the very foundation with the kindergarten where the child gains his first impressions of life and begins forming those habits which very often cling throughout a lifetime. These little ones are the potential drivers. If they learn to drive right, they will conserve human life rather than destroy it. Teach the young generation the meaning of traffic laws, the killing po-

A careless pedestrian was to blame for the wrecking of this truck and the death of its driver. As the pedestrian suddenly crossed the road, directly in front of the truck, the driver swerved off the roadway and his machine overturned in the ditch where it immediately caught fire. Driver was pinned in the front seat and burned to death before he could be extricated.

tentialities of the automobile, the rules of the road, the obligation of courtesy to others and the vital necessity of making sure at all times that the cars they are driving are mechanically perfect. If you teach them all that, then you will have come as close to having developed the proper driver attitude as it is humanly possible to do.

We have a grave and dangerous problem in the millions of bad drivers we must cope with today. Only by the most stringent measures of enforcement and education can we solve it. The problem of tomorrow—and of the potential driver—can and will be solved by education.

Tonsillectomies in Polio Season Up to Physician

Although summer is popularly considered a favorable time for removal of children's infected tonsils or adenoids, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, through its local chapter, urges parents to seek the advice of their own personal physician on whether such operation during the polio season is advisable.

Scientific investigations carried out with March of Dimes funds indicate that there may be more of a predisposition to infantile paralysis infection as a result of tonsil and adenoid operations performed during the seasonal polio months—June through September.

Consequently, the National Foundation points out, parents should be guided by their own physician's advice in each individual case.

Ag Conservation Program Renewed

Conservation activities by Crawford County farmers under the 1947 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) have been resumed according to Stanley S. Hummel, vice-chairman of the Crawford-Otsego Co. AAA Committee.

Uncertainty in the amount of funds available for use this year necessitated suspension of the program for a period of several weeks. This situation has now been clarified and ACP activities have been resumed, he stated.

Surveys are now being made by County officers throughout the County to determine the amount of work done under the program during the first five months of the year, he stated. This will give some indication of the extent of funds available for practices during the remaining five months of 1947. Funds available nationally for practices under ACP will be somewhat less for 1947 than they were in 1946, he added. The amount asked for Crawford County for 1947 was $4,421—available $2,509—which is nearly $400 more than received in 1946.

Vice-chairman, Stanley S. Hummel pointed out that one of the biggest problems farmers face in resumption of practices will be in obtaining and spreading conservation materials such as lime, phosphates and other materials.

In order to assure maximum conservation activity during the remaining months of the year, Vice-Chairman Hummel urges farmers who desire to carry out this type of practice to get in touch with him immediately and arrange for this service.

Contract price delivered on farm will be $4.25 on farms north of Grayling and $4.50 per ton of lime on farms south of Grayling. It can be ordered spread for 50c per ton extra. All farmers on the program received a credit of $2.50 per ton and they will only pay the difference to the trucker.

CHAPTER XII

They were driving toward her uncle's house, and Johnny stopped
the car in the middle of the road,
turned it to face the other direction and drove toward Martindale.
When Kit looked questioning at him he kept his eyes straight ahead and answered emphatically, "I've got something to say to you and we're going to the Park for you to hear it now!"

Kit knew what Johnny was going to say to her before they came to the clearing in the grove they called their own private property.
She knew and she didn't want to hear it because she knew that now
it could make no difference to her life.

She had become too deeply entangled with Basil and the Martin family to change her plans now—even if she wanted to. She had told Basil that she would do as he asked,
but only after she had married him
—not before. She did not know exactly why she had specified this condition—only that it gave her a little more time. She had talked Basil into waiting until the east wing was finished before having the wedding and as near as they could tell it would be completed the middle of December. It was nearly the end of November then.

Johnny lifted her up on the rock
and pulled himself up beside her.
"Kit, do you remember that first day I came in the office after I got back?" He laid his hand over hers. "Remember how Handley tried to throw me out and you—
you came to my rescue right away?"
He smiled at the thought of it.

"I remember, Johnny. You acted like somebody's lost puppy. I got there just in time, didn't I?" She smiled too at the picture they had drawn from memory.

"When I saw you that day I—well,
put it this way, Kit, remember when you were a kid and you wanted something real bad—a sled or a bike—and you looked around every place for just the right one, somewhere the right style but the color wasn't it and you looked and looked and finally there it was and you knew that was it—that nothing else would do—that had to belong to you? Remember, Kit?"

She nodded her head, smiling a little sadly.
"Well, that's how it was with me that day, Kit. I looked at you and then I knew that you were the one. I knew the girl I'd dreamed about in those foxholes and farther back than that even, I knew that she had hair that fell down over her shoulders like yours." He touched her chin with his finger and held her face close to his. "I knew that when I kissed her it would be like —like this..." He gathered her close against him and kissed her long and passionately and time stopped for them both.

Breathless he let her go and saw her cheeks were wet. She held to him desperately as though she wanted never to let him go. His hand caressed her long soft hair.

"Kit, don't fight it any longer.
We love each other—can't you feel it, my darling? You'll never belong to anyone but me, beloved."

She did not answer him, nor look at him. She kept her face buried against his shoulder.

"You don't love Basil, do you?
Tell me you don't, tell me, Kit!"
he pleaded softly.

She looked up then, but not into his eyes. She turned her face toward Martindale and looked long at it,
then she spoke.

"Darling, I told you tonight that the girl you marry will be the luckiest girl in the whole world—and she will be, Johnny. But—it can never be me, believe me, darling.
My plans are made and if I would change them I would change the lives of too many people that are dear to me."

"If you mean your uncle and aunt,
Kit, why, we can find a way. We'll
..." he assured her quickly.

"No, Johnny. There would be too many to find a way for. Oh, Johnny, don't tell me it would be easy
because even though I might want to believe you I know differently.
And my uncle—what would become of him, Johnny? After they've taken me in their home I couldn't do a thing like that to them.
Maybe you could get him a place at the office, but Johnny, he's old and can't learn something new at his age. In a few years they'll retire him and he and Aunt Anna can live happily for the rest of their lives. And Mrs. Martin... Oh, I suppose she has been mean and fanatic, darling, but I love her. Can you understand that? She's the grandmother I never had and always wanted and she really loves me. What would happen to her?"
She drew a long breath and pressed his hand.

"Darling Johnny, there's just one way to see it and that's the way it is. Our roads branch here. I go this way and you—that way—and we can't change them, Johnny. They were made for us, not by us, perhaps. But we must follow them." She got down from the rock and turned to him, smiling.

Johnny looked at her and shook his head sadly. He got down and stood beside her, his hands on her arms.

"Some day, darling, I hope you find out that what we have is bigger than anything that could stop
it. And when you do—well, I'll be waiting."

"You mustn't, Johnny! Find somebody else — you'll forget me soon." There was deep concern in her voice.

"There could never be anyone else, Kit. I'll never forget you."

"You mustn't remember this but —you should know it, darling. I'll never forget you either, Johnny, nor what you've meant to me." She started walking towards the car
and Johnny fell in step beside her.
Neither of them spoke again.

Up in the house on the top of the hill three people were sitting in the large living room talking in quiet voices.

Basil was seated on the couch across from his parents. Jennifer Martin had retired earlier, but each of them cast anxious glances toward the hall as though she might have come back to listen to their conversation.

"But why does she keep putting it off? Why wait until you're married before she talks to her about changing it?" Henry asked indignantly.

"Yes, really, son, we decided it should have been discussed a long time ago, didn't we?" Mrs. Martin added.

Basil got up nervously and lit a cigarette.

"I'm doing the best I can. She won't ask her before then. You know her. She does things just when she pleases!"

"But suppose the old—suppose mother dies before then?" Henry corrected himself.

"Don't kid me. She'll live to be a hundred and ten!" Basil predicted bitterly.

"Oh I wouldn't say that. She may doesn't want..."

four years ago this day, it was fitting that plans for a new park should be started this day almost a quarter of a century later.

Johnny found that the men would go along with him on the new park plans. They were not so enthusiastic at first, arguing that the site was too far away from most of their homes, but when Johnny explained that it was either here or no place, they agreed that it would be best to go ahead.

Crawford County Library

A recent gift to the Crawford County Library was the four-volume set, "Pictorial History of the Second World War." Published in a special Veterans' Edition by Wm. H. Wise and Company, the set was presented to the library with the compliments of Chief Shoppenagons Post 6579, Veterans of Foreign Wars of U. S., and was accepted in behalf of the library board by Mrs. Augustus Funck, Librarian.

In these four volumes, actual on-the-spot photographs arranged in chronological order depict the story of the war from Chamberlain's announcement of a state of war between Germany and Great Britain on September 3, 1939, to the signing of the final surrender document on September 2, 1945. The volumes have been divided into sections each of which pictorially reports one year of the war. Preceding each section is a short chronology of important military developments pictured in that division, supplying a pattern into which the subsequent pictures may be mentally filed and catalogued.

The set is an important addition to the library's material relating to the war, and the library board and staff are sincerely grateful to the VFW for their splendid gift.
